

Details Pluralism Working Paper no 1

Title	Islam and the Secular State
Author	Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im
Keywords	Islam and politics, secularism, human rights, civic reason, international cooperation, humanitarian intervention
Category in Working Paper series	A – academic research paper
 © Rob Stevens	Prof. Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im, originally from Sudan, is Charles Howard Candler Professor of Law at Emory Law School (Atlanta, USA). He is an internationally recognized scholar of Islam and human rights, and human rights in cross-cultural perspectives. His research interests also include constitutionalism in Islamic and African countries, and Islam and politics. He directs several research projects which focus on advocacy strategies for reform through internal cultural transformation.
Website	www.law.emory.edu/aannaim

Title	Shari'a in the Secular State: Possibility or Challenge?
Author	Zainal Abidin Bagir
Keywords	Shari'a, secular state, pluralism, fundamentalism, CSOs strategies
Category in Working Paper series	A – academic research paper
	Dr. Zainal Abidin Bagir is the Regional Coordinator of the Promoting Pluralism Knowledge Programme in Indonesia. He is Executive Director of the Center for Religious and Cross-cultural Studies (CRCS) at the Graduate School of Gadjah Mada University in Yogyakarta, Indonesia. His research focuses on higher education in the Muslim context, religion and contemporary issues, and pluralism and interreligious dialogue.
Website	www.crccs.ugm.ac.id/profile_pakZAB.php

Title	Rethinking the Secular: Possibilities and Challenges
Author	Sitharamam Kakarala
Keywords	The secular, postcolonial critique, India
Category in Working Paper series	A – academic research paper
	Prof. Sitharamam Kakarala is the Regional Coordinator of the Promoting Pluralism Knowledge Programme in India. He is Director of the Centre for Culture and Society in Bangalore. CSCS was established in 1996 by scholars interested in new approaches to studying culture in India. The need was felt to reframe the social sciences and humanities disciplines to deal with the transformations and political mobilizations currently taking place in the area of gender, caste and community.
Website	www.cscsarchive.org/Members/ramsk/cscs_people_view