

Pluralism Working Paper no 7

Title	Exploring new Sites of Social Transformation Conversations with the founding members of the Patna Collective in India
Author	Elise van Alphen and Hilde van 't Klooster
Keywords	Religion, faith, social transformation, research-activism
Category in Working Paper series	C – Interviews and Conversations
Comments can be sent to	e.vanalphen@uvh.nl and h.vantklooster@uvh.nl as well as to khalidanisansari@gmail.com and shahrukhalam@gmail.com And to the editors of the Pluralism Working Paper series – pluralismworkingpapers@uvh.nl
	Sharukh Alam co-founder and member of The Patna Collective (India). In addition to the Pluralism Knowledge Programme India of HIVOS, The Kosmopolis Institute and the Centre for the Study of Culture and Society (India), the Patna Collective also aligns itself with the Faith and Liberation project of the Dutch developmental cooperation organisation Mensen met een Missie (People with a Mission).
	Khalid Anis Ansari is a founding member of The Patna Collective (India) and also a PhD student at the Kosmopolis Institute (University for Humanistics, Utrecht) under the Promoting Pluralism Knowledge Programme in India.